Pam (Paper and Material)

In 2002, we opened Pam on the site of former research/testing facilities adjacent to the Mishima Mill. Pam was opened in order to cultivate paper culture and to facilitate communication with society. Pam features an area for introducing specialty paper and other main products, as well as related technology. The exhibitions and explanations have been designed so that anyone can understand our paper and technology. Pam also features an area for viewing and verifying the results of research on protection and conservation of precious paper resources, an area which our company has researched for many years.

Tokushu Tokai Paper Corporate Profile

Message from the President & Chief Executive Officer

I am Takashi Kimura, President & Chief Executive Officer of Tokushu Tokai Paper.

The Tokushu Tokai Paper Group is now entering a period of significant transformation. We are turning social and environmental challenges, such as resource depletion and climate change, into business opportunities and evolving from being “just a paper company” into a “solutions partner for social and environmental issues” that is indispensable to the development of a circular society. This is the direction set out in Vision 2035, our long-term plan.

The first three years of Vision 2035 — our 7th Medium-Term Management Plan (April 2026 – March 2029) — are positioned as a period for building a solid foundation so that we can seize growth opportunities more reliably and swiftly. However, this period will not simply be about laying the groundwork. It will be a period in which we will sow the seeds for genuine growth while simultaneously strengthening the core businesses we have built up over the years—a period of making future-oriented preparations and bringing our existing strengths to fruition in parallel.

At the core of our medium- to long-term strategy are the two businesses we have advanced in tandem: our paper manufacturing business and our environment-related business. However, to achieve genuine growth, it is essential that we “change the present and evolve.” Our Vision 2035 slogan, “Creating, Once Again. Toward the Future,” embodies our determination to leverage our unique identity as both a manufacturer and a recycler, break free from conventional thinking, and create new value for the future. To evolve from a company that is “nice to have” into one that is truly indispensable, we will continue to take on bold challenges with ideas and execution that go beyond any extension of the past.
